ANC retains Orange Farm

Newly elected Councillors: Ward 2 - Gcinile Zethu Sithole-Gumede, Ward 3 - Thami Dalion Tshaka, Ward 131 - Makhosazana Cynthia Ndlela, Ward 4 - Simon Butana Molefe, Ward 5 - Claud Mxolisi Ndzondo, Ward 1 - Ephraim Motsie

The African National Congress (ANC) has retained all six ward seats in Orange Farm following the 4 November local government elections, despite facing growing opposition support across the area.

The party secured victories in Wards 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 131, although its share of valid votes remained below 37% in every contest. While the ANC maintained its hold on all six wards, only three sitting councillors retained their positions, with three new councillors elected to represent the party. In Ward 1, newly elected councillor Euphraim Motsei won with 34.0% of the vote, ahead of the Democratic Alliance (DA) on 20.8% and the uMkhonto weSizwe Party (MKP) on 15.9%.

Ward 2 saw Gcinile Zethu Sithole-Gumede elected with 35.5%, narrowly defeating the DA, which secured 30.2%, while ActionSA received 8.9%.

In Ward 3, Thami Dalion Tshaka emerged victorious for the ANC, with the DA receiving 21.2% and MKP 12.8%.

Simon Butana Molefe retained his Ward 4 seat for the ANC with 34.9%, followed by the DA on 18.5% and ActionSA on 15.3%.

Ward 5 was retained by sitting councillor Claud Mxolisi Ndzondo, who received 32.6%, ahead of the DA's 27.1% and MKP's 12.2%.

In Ward 131, Makhosazana Cynthia Ndlela retained her seat with 26.2%. The South African Communist Party (SACP) narrowly edged the DA into third place by just three percentage points, receiving 19.2% and 17.1% respectively.

Although the ANC retained all six seats, the results reveal a fragmented political landscape, with most voters in each ward supporting candidates from other parties.

Attention now turns to service delivery, including persistent water shortages, electricity disruptions, deteriorating roads and housing challenges. For the elected councillors, both returning and newly elected, the challenge will be translating electoral victories into measurable improvements for residents.

Tshwane University of Technology students during the filming of their short film, TOKOLOGO, earlier this year

A connection made through a shared love for filmmaking and local talent has helped put Orange Farm in the spotlight after a group of university students received recognition for their work.

Earlier this year, students from Tshwane University of Technology's Faculty of Media, Production and Filming visited Orange Farm to shoot their student short film, "TOKOLOGO", as part of their practical studies.

The project brought together young filmmakers and local talent after executive producer Sicelo Madondo, who lives in Weilers Farm, also known as Majazana in Region G, approached Pule Motloung of Orange Farm Spin City for assistance. Madondo had heard about Motloung's work with young people and asked him to help the crew find suitable filming locations in Orange Farm.

The film follows a young man who develops a passion for car spinning, making Motloung a fitting person to assist with the production. Motloung told OFN the experience reminded him of his own passion for filmmaking. He is also a film graduate from Big Fish School of Digital Filmmaking.

"Being part of this film helped and reminded me of the passion and skill I have for filming. The car spinning storyline brought back memories of when I filmed my own movie, Soweto Drift The Movie, back in 2009," he said.

He said he was happy that his experience and contribution had helped the students, who recently won the award for Best Fiction - Short Film at a film festival. Plans are underway to bring the production to Orange Farm for a public screening.

Gauteng schools face placement pressure as 77,000 await admission

Thousands of parents are still waiting for school allocations for 2027 as Gauteng struggles to accommodate growing demand for Grade 1 and Grade 8 places.

The Gauteng Department of Education (GDE) reported that 267,742 of the 346,495 applicants had been placed by 11 November, representing 77.27% of applications. A further 77,414 applicants remained unplaced.

The department identified 139,024 available spaces across the province, but said these were not necessarily located in communities experiencing the highest demand. A total of 278 schools, including 174 primary and 104 secondary schools, have reached capacity. Johannesburg, Tshwane and Ekurhuleni remain among the areas facing significant placement pressure. Transfer offers began on 13 November for applicants who could not secure places at their preferred schools. Parents have seven days to accept or decline offers. Meanwhile, parents with incomplete applications can submit outstanding documents from 23 November to 4 December. Late applications will open from 17 December 2026 to 31 January 2027. The department has urged parents to monitor application updates and respond promptly to offers.

Table of Grace brings food and relief to Orange Farm families

Volunteers and supporters working together during the Table of Grace soup morning to assist households with food and essential supplies

Residents in need received food and essential supplies through a community initiative that brought residents together for a morning of sharing and support. Table of Grace, founded by Anele Mashinini, 20, and Bongeka Mjatya, 22, hosted a soup morning on 7 November at AFM Elshaddai Assembly in Ext 1.

The initiative distributed warm meals alongside bread, maize meal, samp, canned food, sanitary pads, spinach and clothing to support households beyond the event. Anele Mashinini told OFN that the programme went well and that the organisers experienced no challenges during the outreach. "The project was inspired by the community work of their gym friends, Lebo and Kamo, and aims to provide continued assistance to vulnerable households" he said.

The founders currently rely on personal contributions and donations to keep the initiative running. Despite their limited resources, they hope to make Table of Grace an annual programme and eventually register it as a non-profit organisation (NPO). Through the project, they aim to encourage community support and help families facing difficult circumstances.

Early Childhood Development practitioners attend the court proceedings in support of colleagues facing challenges over title deeds and municipal requirements

Entokozweni Day Care Centre principal appeals R1 000 fine

A childcare practioner from Orange Farm, is appealing her conviction after the Vereeniging Magistrate's Court fined R1 000 for operating an Early Chioldhood Development (ECD) centre without a municipal permit.

Mam'Sweetness Marubelela, has ran Entokozweni Day Care Centre in Ext 7b for 27 Years. Her lawyer, David Dickinson of Lawyers for Human Rights, argued that she could not be expected to provide a document that the state had never issued to her.

Despite the setback, Mam'Sweetness has invested in improving the premises. The upgrades include a new roof, painted walls, new toilets, replacement flooring and a fire escape. She also bought fire extinguishers to improve safety. Two other ECD practitioners facing similar challenges are expected back in court on 20 January and 3 February.

Practitioners from Orange Farm and surrounding areas attended the hearing in support of their colleagues, highlighting the difficulties childcare providers face when property documents stand in the way of compliance. Her case highlights the challenges faced by ECD practitioners who struggle to meet regulatory requirements despite efforts to improve their centres.

Orange Farm mob justice murder suspects released on bail

SAPS officers attend the scene where a man lies covered with a silver emergency blanket following the fatal mob justice attack in Ext 10

Eleven suspects arrested in connection with two murder cases linked to an altercation over a missing cellphone in Ext 10 have been released on bail.

The development was confirmed to OFN by Sergeant Shana Motsapi, Orange Farm SAPS communications officer. The incident happened on Thursday, 5 November. According to a SAPS statement issued on 6 November, police found a man lying in the street near his home with multiple bruises. His mother identified him at the scene.

Preliminary investigations linked the incident to an earlier confrontation between the deceased and a 38-year-old man over a missing cellphone. The 38-year-old sustained a stab wound and later died after being taken to a local clinic.

Police said community members allegedly tracked down the man suspected of the stabbing and assaulted him. He also died at the scene. Eleven suspects were subsequently arrested in connection with the second murder. Acting Orange Farm SAPS Station Commander, Lieutenant Colonel Jean Andre Otto, condemned the violence and warned residents against taking the law into their own hands.

Orange Farm Dj dreams of sharing his talent on bigger stages

A passion for music and performance is driving young entertainer, Luvuyo Mqwathi, to pursue opportunities that could take his career beyond his community.

Popularly known as Vesta The Vocalist, Mqwathi is a multi-talented performer who sings, dances and DJs. He told OFN that he hopes to turn his abilities into a sustainable career in the entertainment industry.

The aspiring entertainer believes that performers from kasi communities deserve opportunities to showcase their abilities beyond their neighbourhoods. His ambitions include performing on major stages, entertaining large audiences and making his community proud.

However, he says the journey requires support from people who can help him develop his brand and gain industry exposure. Mqwathi is appealing to potential sponsors, music producers, promoters, event organisers and professional management teams to consider working with him. Vesta wants to show that local talent can reach bigger platforms when given an opportunity.

Fr3sh Fuego combines music with community upliftment

Image: Fr3sh Fuego

Independent musician and producer Fr3sh Fuego, aka The Real Mpumi Chamane, is using his business interests and resources to create opportunities for young people while pursuing his ambitions in the entertainment industry.

Although he grew up in the East Rand, the artist maintains a connection to Orange Farm, where his grandparents are from, and remains committed to contributing to the community.

He recently registered his independent record label, Cartboys Studios, marking another step in his journey as a musician and producer. Beyond the recording studio, Fr3sh Fuego told OFN that he owns Kasi Game Zone, an arcade in Extension 2 where young people can access gaming facilities and modern consoles.

His involvement also reaches local sport. Over the past three months, he has organised three soccer and netball tournaments, offering free entry and R2,000 in prize money at each event. He is also a co-owner of a private security company whose partners conduct community patrols using their own vehicles and resources.

Drieziek Maskandi artist takes love stories and youth experiences to the stage

Phelele Mbambo is using his songs to explore relationships, love and issues affecting young people, while working towards establishing himself in the music industry.

Popularly known as uZyamfisa, the Drieziek 1 artist started his musical journey in 2024 and has since performed at various events and venues across Gauteng and KwaZulu-Natal. His music draws inspiration from everyday experiences, with storytelling playing an important role in the messages he shares with audiences.

In November, Mbambo released an EP titled Mechanic, adding to his growing catalogue of music. He is also preparing another project, which he plans to release after Good Friday in 2027. Fans can follow him on Facebook at uZyamfisa SA and TikTok at uZyamfisa86.

AUSTIN turns heartbreak and life struggles into music on new EP

Personal experiences and difficult moments have become the inspiration behind a new music project by Orange Farm musician AUSTIN, who hopes his songs will connect with listeners facing similar situations.

His EP, Lost Connection, explores heartbreak, relationships, memories and life's challenges, using music to tell stories drawn from his own experiences. The project features collaborations with fellow musicians Dopeey Dawg, Poster and JDS, among others. Tracks include You Took My Heart, Wrong Time Intro, Pick Up the Phone and If Only. AUSTIN told OFN that music gives him an opportunity to express his emotions and work through difficult experiences. He hopes the project will remind listeners going through similar situations that they are not alone. The musician also aims to collaborate with more artists and introduce his sound to audiences beyond South Africa.

Slova Slate takes Orange Farm sound to national platforms

Image: Qiniso Zungu

Qiniso Zungu, known professionally as Slova Slate, is gaining recognition after having his music featured on Trace Ngoma and Metro FM.

The Ext 6B resident recently had two music videos, filmed in Ext 2 and 6, playlisted on Trace Ngoma, giving his work exposure to a wider audience. Another milestone came when legendary DJ and producer Oskido played his music on Metro FM, an achievement Zungu described as one of his proudest moments. Zungu told OFN that he hopes his journey would inspire young people to pursue their ambitions despite challenges. "I want my journey to inspire young people to choose their dreams over drugs, crime and violence," said Zungu. The emerging artist said his achievements had strengthened his determination to build a music career and demonstrate that talent from townships deserves national recognition.

Gogo Mfelakazini displays some of the colourful pieces she creates through her support project

A community initiative is offering young people an opportunity to develop practical skills while reconnecting with their cultural heritage.

Traditional healer, Gogo Mafelakazini, leads Tshwelopelo ya Moagisane, a project that teaches beadwork, promotes Sepedi traditions and encourages young people and parents to spend their time productively.

Speaking about the initiative, Mafelakazini told OFN that beadwork offers participants an opportunity to develop their talents, refresh their minds and explore alternatives to drug abuse. "The project also welcomes people struggling with substance abuse, encouraging them to learn new skills in a supportive environment" she said.

"Come learn, earn, come heal, come create," is the message behind the initiative, which aims to use creativity and skills development to inspire positive change.

Gogo Mafelakazini's project also hopes to introduce solar lighting so participants can continue making beadwork at night.

Another priority is preserving traditional craftsmanship by passing cultural knowledge to younger generations.

Those interested in supporting the initiative through donations or getting involved, call Josephine on 079 538 4576 or Sylvester, 066 545 3996.

Orange Farm football club receives 180 soccer balls from Moti Cares

The equipment that will be used by The Landlords during training sessions and league fixtures as they continue nurturing local football talent

Real Farmton Citizens FC, known as The Landlords, has received 180 branded soccer balls from Moti Cares to support its grassroots football development initiatives in Orange Farm.

The donation follows an engagement between the club and the Moti Group, with the football team expressing appreciation to Kerry Hosking and the company's staff for supporting its development efforts.

The club owner and Real Farmton Citizens FC, Zolile Cengimbo, told OFN that players got an opportunity to use the newly donated balls during a training session, he described the contribution as a welcome boost to its football activities.

"Real Farmton Citizens FC intends to demonstrate how the donation will benefit its players and wider football development work. The club plans to share an impact report, including photographs and video footage, after its Saturday league fixture" Cengimbo said.

The contribution highlights the role that partnerships between businesses and community sports organisations can play in supporting grassroots football and creating opportunities for young players.

The club, which uses the slogan "From Orange Farm to the World", continues to focus on developing local football talent and growing its presence in the sport.

Young Orange Farm athletes get a boost after equipment appeal

A local sporting club has received support from a Johannesburg-based organisation following an appeal for assistance with essential equipment. Flexible Athletics Club athletes have received eight pairs of running and long jump spikes donated by Play It Forward Jozi.

The organisation responded after the club shared a social media post highlighting its need for suitable footwear. The equipment will assist athletes preparing for track and field competitions under Central Gauteng Athletics. Sifiso Mtsi, the club's media officer, told OFN the contribution would make a meaningful difference to the development of its athletes. He thanked Play It Forward Jozi and its partners for responding to the appeal, particularly as some young competitors struggle to access the equipment required for their events. The contribution comes as the club continues to deal with the loss of its head coach, Thiza. "The assistance would encourage members to remain committed to athletics despite the difficult period" Mtsi said. The club expressed its appreciation for the donation, saying the support would help young athletes pursue their sporting ambitions.
