“I WILL REBUILD!”

Qwik Foods' Lamani vows to rise after suspected arson attack

Businessman, Xolani Lamani, stands amidst the ruins of his shop, reduced to ashes in a suspected arson attack, vowing to rebuild and continue serving his community

A late-night fire tore through Qwik Foods on Link Road, Orange Farm, on Monday, 18 August, around 21:40, destroying stock worth thousands of rands and leaving the store badly damaged by smoke and heat. Firefighters managed to contain the blaze before it spread, and thankfully no lives were lost.

Emergency Management Services later confirmed suspicions that the fire was deliberately started. What should have been an ordinary Monday evening turned into a nightmare for founder Xolani Lamani, who had worked tirelessly to build the store into a clean, affordable, and accessible shopping hub for the community.

"It took me months to build this store – clean, affordable and convenient for my community. We created jobs for unemployed locals. I reported threats to SAPS long before the fire, but nothing was done. I'm disappointed, but I will rebuild. This won't demotivate me," Lamani said, visibly shaken yet resolute.

The fire has not only raised fears about safety and livelihoods in Orange Farm but has also thrown the spotlight back on simmering tensions in the township over who gets to own and run local shops.

Two days after the blaze, on 20 August, members of Operation Dudula visited Qwik Foods to show solidarity with Lamani. But their presence quickly escalated into heated confrontations with Somali and Pakistani spaza shop owners.

While some residents supported Dudula's hardline stance, others defended the role of foreign-owned shops in the community:

• "We can't chase them away. They help us by giving groceries on credit when times are tough," said one resident.

• Others were less sympathetic: "They must go. They sell expired food and stop locals from running shops."

The suspected arson attack has deepened these divides and highlighted the challenges of fostering fair and peaceful coexistence among small business owners in the township economy.

Local leaders and government officials have since rallied behind Lamani. MEC for Finance and Economic Development, Lebohlang Maile, visited the site with Ward 13's Councillor Makhosazane Ndlela, strongly condemning the violence.

"This was an act of hooliganism. We call on law enforcement to bring the perpetrators to justice," Maile said.

Qwik Foods has been more than just a shop. With support from the Gauteng Enterprise Propeller, Lamani was able to expand operations, create jobs for unemployed youth, and provide affordable groceries in an area where options are scarce. For many, his store became a symbol of dignity and self-reliance in Orange Farm.

Despite the devastation, Lamani remains determined to pick up the pieces and continue serving his community. "This fire won't stop me. I will rebuild Qwik Foods and make it stronger. My community needs this store, and I am not giving up," he vowed.

For Orange Farm, the road ahead will demand not only justice for Qwik Foods but also deeper conversations about unity, opportunity, and safety in the township economy.

Tjovitjo's New Hope inspires youth to dream big

Meet the NH crew – where talent, passion and dreams come together to shape a brighter future!

What started in 2022 as "Wa Strata" has grown into a beacon of hope for young people in Tjovitjo and Orange Farm.

Rebranded in 2025 as New Hope, this initiative was founded by Mabidikoe Matseletsele and Khayaletu Mnisi, who dreamed of creating opportunities for youth often overlooked and left behind. Matseletsele and Mnisi, told OFN. "Our goal has always been to open doors for the unprivileged youth and ensure their success." New Hope isn't just a group – it's a movement. In a community where gang violence, substance abuse and hunger cast long shadows, New Hope offers an alternative: a space to explore talent, build skills, and imagine a brighter future.

Their work spans sports, arts and culture, giving young people multiple ways to shine. The group has grown into a vibrant family. New Hope FC boasts 70 football players, while all members take part in drama, showcasing their acting and theater skills. Dance pulses at the heart of the initiative, from traditional dancers and gumboot performers to energetic Pantsula crews, each performance a celebration of creativity and pride. From Orange Farm to Midrand, Johannesburg and the Vaal, New Hope brings its message of resilience and opportunity wherever it goes. What began as a mission to combat social ills now thrives as a platform where talent is nurtured, dreams are cultivated and hope becomes tangible. In the words of its founders, New Hope is about youth empowerment. "Our mission is to give young people the chance they deserve and show them that a brighter future is possible," Mnisi and Matseletsele added.

STOP VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

Zintle Bubu

"It's heartbreaking to witness a young woman's life taken, only to see the perpetrator walk free on bail. This not fair and is a failure of justice and a reminder of how easily women's lives are dismissed. We demand change. Justice must be served and perpetrators should be denied bail."

Thandeka Maseko

"More educational programmes on abuse need to be introduced to help women understand their rights. Empowering women to take action is essential. Awareness can prevent violence. Education is key in reducing the rising number of women being killed. Communities must act together."

Zanele Dumzela

"It's concerning to see a rapist walking free as if nothing happened, simply because he paid bail. It's like money can buy anything. What about the victims? I want investigators to take rape cases seriously. Perpetrators must be held accountable. Justice must be truly served."

Tshidiso Mononyane

"Every day we hear of women being killed. It's not women harming each other; it's men. Men must take responsibility and have honest conversations. Education is vital to end GBV and femicide. To all women, I wish you a joyful Women's Month and safety."

Matshidiso Tsotetsi

"As a mother of boys, it pains me to see women and children being killed. I educate my sons to respect and protect women. Real change starts at home. Women deserve to feel safe. I hope our country becomes a safe place for girls."

Katleho Pheleu

"The rising violence against women feels like an evil force. As a community, we must unite to fight it. Prayer and action are key. This Women's Month, I hope more people turn to God. Only through Him we can confront this destructive spirit."

Papi Miya

"As a father of daughters, it is heartbreaking to witness increasing violence against women. I worry about my children's safety. Fathers must stand together to protect women. Communities must be safer. Women deserve security and respect."

France Mabaso

"What worries me most is that some men attack women instead of protecting them. Men should return to being protectors. Violence against women is unacceptable. Respect and accountability must be restored. Society must change its mindset."

Prince Mtholo

"The increasing abuse against women and children is alarming. Men have a role in educating themselves and younger generations on respect and consent. Support victims and hold perpetrators accountable. Communities must unite against violence."

Sebongile Makhubela

"As a mother raising a girl, I worry about the violence she may face. I want her to grow up confident, aware and safe. Communities should protect girls. Boys must learn respect. Those who harm women must be held accountable."

Fruits and vegetable vendor recovering in Ext 2 brutal attack!

Siyabonga Mzuza in hospital on the day he was stabbed

Ambushed by criminals who took all his cash and trolley of stock this 22-year-old fruits and vegetables vendor is recovering after being brutally attacked and stabbed several times on 14 August.

According to Siyabonga Mzuza's employer, Anthony Sithole, this was not the first time he has been targeted – these muggings happen repeatedly, not only to him but to others as well. He described the horror of the attack: "He was stabbed in the neck, back and near his heart. Siyabonga did nothing wrong he just sells veggies. These criminals are bold and some of their parents even condone this evil. I'm happy that he is recovering." The attack is part of a worrying trend in Orange Farm where street vendors are increasingly targeted with similar incidents reported in Ext 1 and Drieziek 4 in recent weeks, leaving traders fearful for their safety. One local fellow vendor said: "We are just trying to work, to make a living. The vegetables aren't even ours - they belong to our employers. Yet we are being attacked and terrorized. We don't feel safe." Residents demand action and increased police visibility to protect vulnerable vendors and end the spate of violent crimes targeting hardworking community members. Readers took to social media wishing Mzuza well.

CARING FOR OUR ELDERERS THROUGH COMMUNITY-BASED SUPPORT

Did you know that every elderly person in South Africa is protected by the Older Persons Act 13 of 2006?

This law guarantees dignity, care, and support for older people, ensuring they live meaningful and fulfilling lives within their families and communities.

The Rights of Older Persons in Community-Based Care. Older Persons receiving care and support services are entitled to:

- Live in their own homes for as long as possible.
- Enjoy opportunities to reach their full potential.
- Receive family and community protection, guided by cultural values and traditions.

Community-Based Care and Support Programmes
To make these rights a reality, government and community partners provide a variety of programmes, designed to keep Older Persons active, supported, and empowered.

These fall into two main categories:
1. Prevention & Promotion Programmes – Helping Older Persons live independently within their communities.
2. Home-Based Care – Providing frail Older Persons with comprehensive care and support without removing them from their familiar environment.

Services Available for Older Persons

- Community-based programmes include:
- Economic empowerment initiatives to support livelihoods.
 - Recreational activities that promote social interaction and wellness.
 - Health and wellness education, including awareness on HIV & AIDS, Alzheimer's disease, dementia, and emergency care.
 - Spiritual, cultural, civic, and medical services to cater for holistic wellbeing.
 - Nutritious meals for Older Persons in need.
 - Skills development to help Older Persons sustain themselves.
 - Professional rehabilitation and care services to encourage independence.
 - Access to indigent support services for the most vulnerable.

Why It Matters
Older Persons are the pillars of our society – the keepers of wisdom, culture, and family values. By supporting them through community-based care, we are not only protecting their dignity but also strengthening our social fabric.

Let's honour our elders, protect their rights, and ensure they continue to live with pride and purpose.

Because caring for our Older Persons is caring for our future. "Umuntu Umuntu Ngabantu" – Together we protect our elderly citizens

HAPPY Women's Month

This month, OFN proudly gives flowers to women who lead with purpose, rise with resilience and break every stereotype...

Warrant Officer Petunia Thembisile Mkhumbuzi has proudly served in SAPS for 23 years. Her journey began in 2003 at the Client Service Centre (CSC) after completing college. In 2005, she joined Detectives, investigating general crimes with passion and skill. By 2009 and 2010, she earned the Best Detective Award for top convictions. From 2013 to 2015, she worked in the FCS Unit in Orange Farm and Ennerdale. She was later nominated to handle sensitive FCS cases in Dobsonville. Between 2015 and 2019, she investigated serious violent crimes, achieving major convictions. Her dedication secured two murder convictions, with sentences of 12 and 25 years. Mkhumbuzi is currently working at CSC as a second in charge. She also trains new constables, inspiring growth, strength and service in policing at the Orange Farm police station.

Palm Springs' Lisa Simelane is the founder of Noble Virgins. The organization grooms and empowers young girls to respect their bodies and values. Lisa is more than a mentor - many see her as a mother figure. Noble Virgins gained recognition, even being nominated to represent maidens in Lesotho. They also accompanied a maiden who later became Ndlunkulu Lesedi, wife to King Zwelithini. These milestones highlight the influence of Lisa's vision. So far, 10 graduates from Noble Virgins have earned degrees and honours. Others have started their own businesses with Lisa's support. Beyond this work, Lisa runs Lisa's Catering and Baking. She also teaches baking and beadwork, giving girls practical life skills.

Nomsa Nkomonde from Ext 3 is a mother of four and community builder. She picked up her first golf club at age 16. Mentored by Mandy Adamson, her passion grew into a purpose. Nomsa now uses golf to empower township girls. She works with Smart Golf as a junior coach and trainer. Beyond golf, she is treasurer of the Orange Farm Sports Council. She also studies and pursues business opportunities for her growth. For Nomsa, golf is more than a game. It is a tool to help girls dream bigger and believe in themselves.

Thembeni Msibi is a young philanthropist and serial entrepreneur from Ext 6b. She is the founder and CEO of Gcinithemba Projects and Enterprise, driving innovation in the construction sector. Her work tackles inequality and limited opportunities while challenging construction mafias. Msibi empowers women with skills in building, tiling, plumbing and more. Gcinithemba Projects provides construction, renovation, material supply and civil works services. The company delivers timely, budget - friendly projects with high craftsmanship standards. She champions women in leadership and entrepreneurship to boost economic growth. Her vision is a South Africa with inclusivity, job creation and improved infrastructure. Msibi builds lasting relationships with clients and communities through her work. Her leadership reflects empowerment, innovation and positive social impact.

Chef Hope Khoza from Ext 4 is living proof of what passion can achieve. Her career began with a small food business, catering for local events. Her tasty creations quickly earned her community's admiration. She trained as a pastry chef, honing her craft with dedication. Today, she is part of the culinary team on the Oceania Cruises. There, she prepares world - class dishes for international guests. Her success is a source of pride for Orange Farm. Yet she remains rooted in her mission to uplift the youth. For Hope, cooking is more than a career. It is a way to connect, inspire and spread love through food.

Ext 10's Zinhle Nqobile Radebe, is also known as Zee'nqobile. She is a nail technician, makeup artist, and dedicated beauty educator. She founded Goddess Beauty Trainings to empower young professionals. Her academy teaches both technical beauty skills and self-confidence. Zinhle helps young women become independent and embrace creativity. Every design she creates is a chance to build self-worth. She transforms beauty into a tool for empowerment and growth. Her mentorship inspires women to "own their crowns." Zinhle proves that passion and purpose can change lives.

JDA's Orange Farm Turnkey Project showcases women's leadership in male-dominated sectors

In celebration of Women's Month, local artists, Chantell Nkosi and Lungi Nkutha, unveil the Uluntu sculpture outside Masibambane College

As part of the Chris Hani Sports Complex under the Orange Farm Turnkey Project, the Johannesburg Development Agency (JDA) has completed a transformative Public Environment Upgrade along 16th Street and Moyane Drive.

Improvements include paved sidewalks, safe pedestrian crossings, enhanced lighting, trader stalls, street furniture and soft landscaping, creating a safer and more welcoming public space.

The main contractor, Gochi Construction Group, a 100% black woman-owned firm, led road reconstruction, kerb and paving installation, electrical works and more, showcasing women's leadership in a traditionally male-dominated sector. The project also celebrates women in the arts. Emerging artists Chantell Nkosi and Lungi Nkutha, mentored by Ntanzu and Nkosana Ngobese, created a mural and reconstructed a sculpture reflecting the spirit of Orange Farm. Through initiatives like this, the JDA demonstrates that infrastructure development can drive empowerment, inclusivity and community pride.

Two Touch FC and VYD win Vusudakie Tournament

Image: Vusudakie Youth Development
These champions reign supreme in a nail-biting final, clearly showing that they did not come to add numbers but to take the trophy home!

This exciting Top 8 tournament featured the U13 and U17 divisions. Hosted by Vusudakie Youth Development (VYD), the tournament took place at Vulanindlela Secondary in Ext 2, from 9 to 17 August. The tourney brought together kasi football flair, skills and talent to life as teams battled for championship glory. With this tournament VYD aims to mobilize the youth of Orange Farm away from the growing challenges of drugs and gangsterism. Organizers said the tournament was not just about trophies but, about building discipline, unity and hope through sport.
"We want to give young people a positive platform where they can showcase talent and stay away from destructive influences," they emphasized.

In the U13 final, VYD clinched victory with a 2-1 win over FC Ada TAKA, walking away with R800 prize money, a trophy and gold medals. The runners - up received R400 and silver medals.
The U17 final was a nail-biter as Two Touch FC edged Money Heist FC in penalties 5 - 4, securing R1 500, a trophy and gold medals, while the runners - up took home R500 and silver medals. The tournament was a vibrant display of community spirit and rising soccer stars, leaving fans eager for the next edition.

FA is ready to represent Orange Farm at regional level!

Future Academy wins league, promoted to Hollywoodbets

This Ext 7b's team was crowned OFLFA Super League champions and earned promotion to the Hollywoodbets Regional League, on 10 August, a huge milestone for a team that has proven hard work and determination truly pay off.
Future Academy has quickly made its mark under the guidance of coach and team chairman Fhatuwani Nkosi affectionately known as Ta-Bless and coach Mandla Ntaje AKA Ta-Msheke.
The team's remarkable performance throughout the season has been powered by discipline, unity and an unwavering commitment to success.
Reflecting on the journey, Nkosi said: "This project was challenging but, our teamwork and dedication helped us overcome every obstacle. I'm incredibly proud of our achievement. Let's celebrate this win and carry the momentum forward. I'm excited to see what else this team can accomplish." OFLFA Super League chairperson Patrick Mokwena, congratulated the champions. He said: "Congratulations to Future Academy, especially the players who have been working tirelessly all season. It's fantastic to see their hard work pay off with this well-deserved promotion. Their commitment and collaborative spirit have been instrumental in this success. This promotion is a testament to their talent and we look forward to seeing them represent Orange Farm in the Hollywoodbets Regional League."

With this victory, Future Academy now steps into an exciting new chapter, ready to carry the pride of Orange Farm into the regional stage.
